Marching Orders!

MR. D. A. DUNSTAN M.L.A. complained to Truth this week that many evicted families, frantically trying to find homes, were being left "high and dry" by the Housing Trust.

He quoted as an example a case in which a 70-year-old clerk and his wife and three children had been given their marching orders from the Housing Trust home in Klemzig of relatives who are sheltering them.

The family, that of Mr. George Oxer, is staying under cramped conditions in a semi-detached five-roomed house at 26 Culford Avenue, Klemzig.

Housing Trust officials declined to discuss the case with Truth.

A BREACH OF RULES

The Oxers told Truth this week the Trust had given them until Monday, March 17, to get out, claiming it was a breach of tenancy rules to overcrowd Trust houses.

They said the Trust had made no offer of alternate accommodation, though they had told the Trust they would have nowhere to go if evicted.

A 16-year-old boy in the family has pneumonia, which his parents say is a result of the "overcrowding."

The Oxers have two other children, aged 15 and 13. They have stayed with Mrs. Oxer's brother, Mr. Raymond Becker, since their eviction from a house in Clarke St., Norwood, last month.

Mr. Dunstan M.L.A. for Norwood, has taken a keen interest in the Oxers plight.

He told Truth the facts of their case put the Housing Trust in a very poor light.

"The Trust is supposed to help people in such trouble," Mr. Dunstan said, "and I cannot think of a more deserving case than this."

"But the Trust's attitude here is just typical of its attitude in dozens of cases I have handled."

"Families who are helpless to find accommodation just seem to be ignored by the Trust and are left high and dry."

Mrs. Oxer also complained to Truth about what she called the "do-nothing" attitude of the Trust.

She said she had been to the Trust twice since the eviction from Norwood, but had been unsuccessful in pleading for a home.

When they left their Norwood home in February, she said, they were taken in by her brother and his wife, who have one child

NOWHERE TO GO . . .

"We had nowhere to go, and my brother wouldn't see us left out on the street, though it meant overcrowding," she told Truth.

Barry (16) was bunked down in the garage and the rest of us took up in two rooms in the house.

"It was bad enough having seven in a house this size. Then Barry got pneumonia through having to sleep in the draughty garage. He's had to move up into the house, which makes the crowding here even worse."

Bitter Criticism

Trust house last August, Mrs. Oxer said.

Since being evicted from Norwood, they had twice applied to the Trust for "emergency consideration," but had been refused help.

"On top of that, we were told to be out of my brother's place by Monday week because we were overcrowding it," Mrs. Oxer said.

"And they added something really stupid—they told us that while our heads they could not do anything towards getting us accommodation. And yet they are telling us to get out. It just doesn't make sense."

She bitterly criticised the fact that two Trust houses—one only 150 yards from where she now lives—have been vacant since last weekend.

Truth found that 10 Abbott St., Klemzig, and 368 Main North, East Road, Windsor, Gardens, were empty, and at the time we saw them were said to have days.

"They won't even give us one of those as temporary accommodation," Mrs. Oxer said.

If the Trust gave them no extension and no accommodation was offered in the meantime, it would be "the street" after Monday week, she told us.

Truth submitted some questions to the Housing Trust manager, Mr. Ramsay, who replied that he did not want to make any statement on the matter.
